

STILL LEARNING AFTER ALL THESE YEARS!

Diane Costello

Executive Officer, Council of Australian University Librarians

The Council of Australian University Librarians (CAUL) started life in 1928, and formalised itself in 1965. Issues under its purview range from collection of statistics and the price of serials (both on the agenda in 1928) to best practice, knowledge management and consortial purchasing (terms widely unknown until the past five years). This presentation highlights both its collaborative processes and the programs and projects being pursued by CAUL as a whole and by its members, such as the Australian Digital Theses Program, University Library Australia, Information Literacy Standards, Best Practice Handbook, the AARLIN and COLIS projects, and the CEIRC program.
