

CHICKEN LITTLE WAS WRONG
Karen Hunter
Senior Vice-President, Elsevier Science

There are individuals who have built their careers by yelling "the sky is falling" with respect to scholarly publishing. The time has come to recognize that publishing has entered a new era, with its own characteristics and realities. This presentation will focus on the new attributes of 21st century scholarly publishing and the real issues facing both publishers and libraries.